Capital and Business Alliance with xenodata lab.

We, Tokai Tokyo Financial Holdings, Inc. (hereafter referred to as “the Company”), are pleased to announce that we have entered into the capital and business alliance with xenodata lab., Inc. (hereafter referred to as “xenodata lab.”). The firm, xenodata lab., develops an artificial intelligence (AI) to analyze corporate financial data through natural language processing based on its logical causal relation.

Introduction of xenodata lab.’s services into Tokai Tokyo Financial Group

Since November this year, we, Tokai Tokyo Financial group, have been offering the service, “TT Flash” at Tokai Tokyo Securities. xenodata lab. and the Company co-designed “TT Flash” and it helps our sales staff and retail customers to grasp efficiently the performance of the company of choice immediately after such corporate financial disclosures. “TT Flash” is designed to work as an automated financial analyzer using xenodata lab.’s unique AI technique that can understand and analyze natural language. We also introduced xenodata lab.’s another application software, “xenoStory”, to Tokai Tokyo Research Institute with a view to shifting up its operating gear to more value-added research activity by increasing the work efficiency of its research analysts. The “xenoStory” produces automatically the summary of financial result promptly after its disclosure.

Tokai Tokyo Financial Holdings to accept a part of allocation of new shares by xenodata lab.

The Company decided to subscribe a part of the shares that xenodata lab. issued at this time to increase their capital through the third-party allocation method. This is the first time for Tokai Tokyo Financial group to accept new share allocation by a FinTech start-up. Our idea behind the capital and business alliance is to pursue more possible collaboration to make the most of their numerical data and language analysis technology to produce new services and businesses.

We continue increasing the corporate value of our group by creating new businesses and launching our operational revolution, taking advantage of newly emerging technology. At the same time, we strive after improving the quality and the convenience of services we offer to customers.
